Chelmsford CM1 3RR

BOOK NOW FOR EARLY BIRD OFFER!!

Building on the immense success of previous Summer Schools, 2019 promises to be even bigger and better than ever. The sixth Grand Union annual residential Summer School will take place again in the wonderfully spacious Writtle University College and will run for four days, beginning lunchtime Monday July 30th, and concluding on Thursday afternoon August 2nd with a concert of the work created during the course.

Open to young musicians aged 12-21, a unique opportunity to explore music from around the world and develop improvisation skills with internationally-renowned musicians born and brought up in all major global musical traditions.

Grand Union Orchestra musicians are not only acclaimed artists in their own right, they are also highly experienced teachers and workshop leaders.

The course will be led by these musicians, who have worked together as Grand Union's core team for many years, under the general direction of Claude Deppa and Grand Union's composer/director Tony Haynes.

What's in it for me?

- Work alongside leading professional musicians
- Learn about world music, first hand, from experts
- Discover new instruments and develop improvisation skills
- Meet and create with like-minded young musicians and make new friends
- Take part in a public concert featuring music created in the workshops

Who's it for?

Young musicians of secondary school age and up (12-21) interested in learning about music from other parts of the world, and/or who play a non-European instrument. The cost will be £240 (£180 if booked before the end of May); bursaries and a limited number of non-residential places may be available.
